In business, failure is generally seen as a bad thing. And, according to Thomas and Sara deling in their article “Managing Your Stress: Why Introverts Persevere,” the primary reason that high achievers plateau is in fear of failure ironically, the more that others celebrate a high achiever’s successes, the more afraid he or she can become of making success.

...stages, try for consistency. If you’re doing the work, you have a good chance of getting the outcome you want. Students seeking success without burnout during final exam week should check their motivation and mindset to manage stress, says Grayson Kimball, a mental performance coach and professor at Georgetown University. Managing your team when attention to detail becomes too much. If someone’s obsession with being “perfect” starts to affect their or their team’s performance negatively, then their perfectionism is likely maladaptive.
